About BNL

BNL is a leading Italian banking group and the seventh largest bank in Italy. It is present in the country's major cities through a network of 890 branches. BNL offers a wide range of products and services, both traditional and innovative, to satisfy the needs of every customer (Individuals, Business, Private and Public Administration).

History:

BNL has developed a strong Retail & Private Banking culture thanks to its century of experience. BNL was founded in 1913 as the Istituto di Credito per la Cooperazione to fund the strong Cooperative movement in the early twentieth century. BNL's focus on public-sector finance, working closely with the government, dates back to the late 1940s.

BNL became a joint-stock company (Banca Nazionale del Lavoro Spa) in 1992 and was listed in the Italian stock exchange's MIB30 index in 1998. The bank joined the BNP Paribas Group in 2006.
